

Sherlockians (and Holmesians) did not gather in New York to celebrate the Great Detective's 167th birthday this year, but the somewhat shorter long weekend offered plenty of events, thanks to Zoom and other modern technology. Detailed reports will be available soon at the web-site of The Baker Street Irregulars <www.bakerstreetirregulars.com>, but here are few brief paragraphs to tide you over:

The BSI's Distinguished Speaker on Thursday was Andrew Lycett, the author of two fine books about Conan Doyle; his topic was "Conan Doyle's Questing World" (and close to 400 people were able to attend the virtual lecture); the event also included the announcement by Steve Rothman, editor of the Baker Street Journal, of the winner of the Morley-Montgomery Award for the best article the BSJ last year: Jessica Schilling (for her "Just His Type: An Analysis of the Découpé Warning in The Hound of the Baskervilles").

Irregulars and guests gathered on Friday for the BSI's annual dinner, with Andrew Joffe offering the traditional first toast to Nina Singleton as The Woman, and the program continued with the usual toasts, rituals, and papers; this year the toast to Mrs. Hudson was delivered by the lady herself, splendidly impersonated by Denny Dobry from his recreation of the sitting-room at 221B Baker Street. Mike Kean (the "Wiggins" of the BSI) presented the Birthday Honours (Irregular Shillings and Investitures) to Dan Andriacco (St. Saviour's Near King's Cross), Deborah Clark (Mrs. Cecil Forrester), Carla Coupe (London Bridge), Ann Margaret Lewis (The Polyphonic Motets of Lassus), Steve Mason (The Fortescue Scholarship), Ashley Polasek (Singlestick), Svend Ranild (A "Copenhagen" Label), Ray Riethmeier (Morrison, Morrison, and Dodd), Alan Rettig (The Red Lamp), and Tracy Revels (A Black Sequin-Covered Dinner-Dress). After which the BSI's prestigious Two-Shilling Award was presented to Ralph Hall and Jim Saunders.

Three new titles are available from the Baker Street Irregulars Press: The Staunton Tragedy is the latest in the Manuscript Series (193 pp., $39.95); edited by Michael F. Whelan; it has a facsimile of the manuscript of "The Missing Three-Quarter", with an annotated transcription and scholarly commentary (as always, the series offers readers an opportunity to be close to the moment when one of the stories was written). Corporals, Colonels, and Commissionaires, edited by Michael J. Quigley and Marsha Pollak (241 pp., $39.95), is the next book in the Professions Series, offering a fine assortment scholarship on the many military aspects of the Canon. And "A Quiet Air of Mastery", edited by Leslie S. Klinger (130 pp., $25.95), is a collection of warm tributes to Michael F. Whelan, written by many of his friends in appreciation of his 23 years as the "Wiggins" of the BSI. All three can be ordered at <www.bakerstreetirregulars.com/the-bsi-press>.

The BSI's conference on "Sherlock Holmes and the British Empire" has again been postponed, in view of the prediction that less than half of the population will have received an initial coronavirus vaccination by June. The new date for the conference at the Bear Mountain Inn, N.Y. is July 29-31, 2022. Next year's birthday festivities will cluster around the BSI's next annual dinner on Jan. 14, 2022.

Jan 21 #2 "Doyle's Rotary Coffin" (a society whose motto is "All Holmes Is Good Holmes") has published its third book: Robert Perret and Paul Thomas Miller's "Sherlock Holmes" Is an Anagram of "Snarky Clock" and 327 Other Holmesian Facts, and it is a delightful contribution to the literature, from the dedication right through to the end; all three of the society's books are available in print, and as free downloads from the society's web-site at <www.sites.google.com/site/doylesrotarycoffin>.

The Reichenbach Irregulars of Switzerland have announced a Zoom meeting on Feb. 25 with a reading by Johanna Rieke, author of six pastiches, from the first of the pastiches to be available in English: Sherlock Holmes and the Cornwall Affair; the event will end with a conversation and a Q&A session. If you would like to Zoom in to the meeting, more information is available from the society at <reichenbachirregulars@gmail.com>.

Alexander Orlov has reported a very early appearance of Sherlock Holmes on a phonograph record, issued by Pathé Records in Russia; it's the "Sherlock Holmes Polonaise" (as recorded by Oscar Filippovich Knaub with the Pathé Orchestra, circa 1911-1917). You can listen to the recording at a Russian web-site <www.tinyurl.com/y9ne6pgr>, if you want to, and see an image of the record label at <www.tinyurl.com/y8sjex4f>. For those who have not danced a polonaise, it has been described as "a stately Polish procession-al dance, performed by couples who walk around the dance hall."

What city, mentioned in the Canon, had more than a million inhabitants at the time Conan Doyle visited it, but no longer exists?

The Jan.-Feb. issue of Ellery Queen's Mystery Magazine offers its annual tribute to Sherlock Holmes: Olga Popover's Sherlockian cover artwork; Terence Faherty's parody of "The Gloria Scott"; Steve Steinbock's reviews of Sherlockian books and television; Dean Jobb's "Stranger Than Fiction" column; Josh Pachter's Ellery Queen pastiche "The Five Orange Pipes"; editor Janet Hutchings' "Happy Birthday, Sherlock Holmes!"; Mike Anderson's pastiche "The Shadow of the New"; Ruth Berman's poetic "Watson's Plane"; and Steve Hockensmith's Amlingmeyer Brothers story "Curious Incidents". There is additional non-Sherlockian content in the issue, of course, including a newly-discovered story by Cornell Woolrich.

William Link died on Dec. 27. Best known for his work creating and writing for television series such as "The Fugitive", "Mannix", "Colombo", and "Murder, She Wrote", he was named a Grand Master of the Mystery Writers of America in 2018; his many credits included "The Murder of Sherlock Holmes" (1984), the pilot episode of "Murder, She Wrote".

Craig Stephen Copland's The Adventure of the Notable Bachelorette (Washington: Conservative Growth, 2015; 101 pp., $9.95) is an amusing parody/pastiche inspired by "The Noble Bachelor"; it's part of a long series, and the author has information about all of them (and offers free samples) at his web-site at <www.sherlockholmesmystery.com>. More recent titles are available only as Kindle e-books, among them The Adventure of the Engineer's Mom (2018; 124 pp., $3.99).

Jan 21 #3 "Sherlock's Daughter" is another television series that might actually be produced. According a story at the Deadllne web-site (Jan. 12) <www.tinyurl.com/y66bzss3>, Starlings Television has green-lighted the series, in which a young American woman, after the mysterious murder of her mother, travels to London to track down her biological father, the legendary Sherlock Holmes, who isn't the mythological figure she has come to expect.

What city, mentioned in the Canon, had more than a million inhabitants at the time Conan Doyle visited it, but no longer exists? That challenge was issued in 1998, but the answer is still: Brooklyn (mentioned in "The Red Circle"), a city during his 1894 lecture tour, was annexed into the city of New York in 1896 and now is merely a borough.

Tania Henzell is celebrating Sherlock Holmes' birthday (and her Sherlock Holmes Tartan) by offering a 10% discount on the deerstalker (also on the hip flask). The discount code-word is IRREGULAR10, and her web-site at <www.sherlockholmestartan.com> has many other items in the Sherlock Holmes Tartan.

"Woolens became such a status symbol that Arthur Conan Doyle clad his fictional sleuth Sherlock Holmes in a tweed deerstalker hat in 1893," according to an article in the National Geographic Traveler Magazine (Jan. 14) <www.tinyurl.com/y2ebfjfo>. Dedicated Sherlockians will be quick to tell you that it was Sidney Paget, rather than Conan Doyle, who put Holmes in a deerstalker, but: did Sherlock Holmes, in the Canon, ever wear tweed?

The Public Domain Review recently posted an article about what may be the earliest "rogues' gallery" made available to the public: Samuel G. Szábo's Rogues: A Study of Characters, a photographic album published in 1857; the Pinkertons' collection of mug shots was circulated in 1855, but only among law enforcement agents <www.tinyurl.com/yxmmmwmld>.

Edward C. McManus celebrated the holidays in verse with an amusing "Sherlockian Christmas Carol" posted to the blog of the Strand Magazine on Jan. 8 <www.tinyurl.com/y5nzzx22>.

Further to the announcement of the publication of a facsimile of the manuscript of "The Lost World" (Dec 20 #1), Randall Stock's "Best of Sherlock" web-site <www.bestofsherlock.com/mss/lost-world-2020.htm> now has a review of the facsimile, as well as interesting details about the manuscript and the story.

Howard Ostrom and Ray Wilcockson have compiled a (now) 310-page data-base entitled "Under the Clock, Sherlock--Still Rockin' After All These Years" that discusses (often with colorful illustrations) a wide variety of Sherlockian music, in various formats, from 1893 to the present. It's available on request from Howard at <howardostrom@gmail.com>, and is a delightful demonstration of the many ways in which Sherlock Holmes has become a part of our cultural literacy.

Jan 21 #4 Carter Dickson's The Plague Court Murders (1934) featured Sir Henry Merrivale, who is a member of the Diogenes Club and explains how and why he received the nickname of Mycroft. Carter Dickson is a pseudonym used by John Dickson Carr, and his novel is the latest in Otto Penzler's series of American Mystery Classics, with an introduction by Michael Dirda (416 pp., $25.95).

Karen Murdock has reported some interesting numbers in an article in Business Insider (Jan. 20): Netflix has listed its ten most-watched original movies, and "Enola Holmes" ranked 7th, with 76 million views ("Extraction" came in first, with 99 million views). The article also notes that Netflix counts a view if an account watches at least two minutes of a movie, so it isn't clear how Netflix views would translate into box-office dollars if the films had been shown in theaters.

It's marginally Sherlockian, but Alexander Orlov spotted an advertisement <www.tinyurl.com/y2fy34hq> for Sadler's Peaky Blinder spirits with an image of what seems to be a detective. Sadler's, originally a brewery that was founded in Birmingham's "Black Country" in 1900, has expanded its offerings, and their Peaky Blinder label celebrates the violent urban street gang that flourished there <www.tinyurl.com/y2p97gqf>. There's also a television series, and you can look them up at Wikipedia. You needn't worry about what the advertisement says: it's in Latvian, and a dire warning about the dangers of alcohol.

Did Sherlock Holmes, in the Canon, ever wear tweed? Yes, in "A Scandal in Bohemia": "With a nod he vanished into the bedroom, whence he emerged in five minutes tweed-suited and respectable, as of old."

Andy Fusco has noted a nice essay ("The Mystery Is Holmes: Why We Return to Conan Doyle's Stories Over and Over Again") posted by Timothy Miller at the CrimeReads blog on Jan. 21 <www.tinyurl.com/y3edtyv9>. There's also:

Timothy Miller's new pastiche The Strange Case of Eliza Doolittle (Hoboken: Seventh Street, 2021; 249 pp., $15.95) is an imaginative mix of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, George Bernard Shaw, and Robert Louis Stevenson in a nicely-written story that offers some dramatic surprises.

The Parallel Case of St. Louis recently discussed "The Six Napoleons" at a meeting of their society, and someone reported a different and decidedly unusual bust of Napoleon <www.tinyurl.com/y5jhponj>.

J.P. Van Gordon has discovered a four-hour "ambience video" for Sherlock Holmes' Parlour at 221B Baker Street <www.youtube.com/watch?v=MJeNG1R7FzM> (ambience videos offer "pleasant, soothing background images & sound for relaxation, study, play, or work"). A YouTube search for [ambience/asmr sherlock] will bring up many others.

Al Gregory <gaslightandfog@verizon.net> kindly offers (via e-mail) his new edition of "The ABC of the BSI" (an alphabetical listing of Investitures, with recipients, from "Abbey Grange" to "Young Stamford") and "The Florin Society" (couples in which both spouses are Investitured Irregulars).

Jan 21 #5 John Dickson Carr's The Island of Coffins and Other Mysteries from the Casebook of Cabin B-13 (Cincinnati: Crippen & Landru, 2020; 329 pp., $47.00 cloth/$22.00 paper) is a collection of his scripts, published for the first time, from the 1948-1949 CBS radio series. Tony Medawar and James Keirans noted in The Armchair Detective (fall 1991) that "Death in the Desert" echoes Conan Doyle's The Tragedy of the Korosko, and that the murder methods used in "Till Death Do His Part" and "The Sleep of Death" were echoed in the 1953 Collier's pastiches "The Adventure of the Sealed Room" and "The Adventure of the Gold Hunter". The publisher's website is at <www.crippenlandru.com>. Carr was a master of the locked-room mystery, and his scripts provide a chance to see how much fun radio drama could be in (what some like to say) the good old days.

Ron Fish renews his offer to add meetings of Sherlockian societies to his Sherlockian Calendar, including gatherings held via Zoom or other technology; you can see his format at <www.sherlockiancalendar.com>, and send him information about up-coming meetings at <ronf404@aol.com>.

One of the nice things about buying a mixed lot of books at an auction (as I did at the Paul Herbert auction) is finding something unexpected, such as Bob Brumfield's Brumfield (1980), a collection of columns he wrote for the Cincinnati Enquirer that includes one Sherlockian column. The opening is well worth quoting: "Baker Street seemed darker than I remembered it. This was due, primarily, to the energy crisis in England, with a resultant cutback in the use of electric lights; and, to some measure, I suppose, to the fact that I'd never been on Baker Street before.

Robert Lloyd Parry's "Nunkie Films" YouTube channel offers a long list of excellent readings of authors who include M. R. James, H. G. Wells, Arthur Machen, Edgar Allan Poe, H. P. Lovecraft, W. W. Jacobs, and Arthur Conan Doyle (five Sherlockian and two non-Sherlockian stories); the channel is at <www.youtube.com/c/NunkieFilms/videos>.

If you're concerned (and many are) about delays in receiving your copies of the Baker Street Journal, BSJ publisher Steve Doyle has a YouTube explanation <www.youtube.com/watch?v=YnX5N37Xdco&feature=youtu.be> about how the pandemic has affected mail delivery.

Tedd Long's Forgotten Visitors: Northwest Ohio's Notable Guests (Toledo: Univ. of Toledo Press, 2020; 197 pp., $24.95) tells stories of a variety of visitors, from explorers Zebulon Pike and William Clark in 1794 to musician Neil Young in 2004, with a chapter devoted to Arthur Conan Doyle, who visited in 1894, 1922, and 1923.

Christopher Morley's poem "Graduate Student" (it's one of his many "Translations from the Chinese") appeared in the Saturday Review of Literature (Nov. 5, 1938) and was reprinted in The Middle Kingdom (1944): The loveliest pupil I ever had / Was my little Samoyed soubrette / Who used to cry, after every lecture, / "When does the drinking begin?" / And declared that Bosanquet's Essentials of Logic / Was more fun than Sherlock Holmes. You can find Bosanquet's book (first published in 1895) on-line at the Internet Archive <www.archive.org/details/theessentialsofl00bosauoft>.

Jan 21 #6 It's possible to feel grateful that postal mail gets through at all during the pandemic (not mentioned in the USPS unofficial motto "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds"). But: on Jan. 21 my mail delivery included a Christmas card mailed from Barcelona on Dec. 7, and another that was mailed from Buffalo on Dec. 16. So much for the old excuse "my check is in the mail."

Scott Hilburn's amusing "Argyle Sweater" comic strip was nicely Sherlockian on Jan. 22 <www.gocomics.com/theargylesweater/2021/01/22>, kindly reported by John Bergquist.

The Mystery Writers of America have announced the nominees for this year's Edgar Awards, and one of them is Nev March's Murder in Old Bombay (Nov 20 #7) for best first novel by an American author (last year the novel won an MWA award for the best unpublished first crime novel). The winners of the Edgars will be announced on Apr. 29.

Dick Van Dyke will receive a Kennedy Center Honor this year (you will be able to watch the festivities on CBS-TV on June 6). He started his acting career more than 70 years ago (he's now 95 years old), and likely is best known for his "The Dick Van Dyke Show" television series. He went on to play Dr. Mark Sloan in the "Diagnosis Murder" television series; the episode "In Defense of Murder" (1997) was inspired by "A Scandal in Bohemia" and the Sherlock Holmes story is credited in the dialogue.

There's still news of some live theater: Neill Hartley's will perform his one-man show "Sherlock Holmes and the Speckled Band" at the Historic Village at Allaire in Wall Township, N.J., on Feb. 13 and 20; their web-site's at <www.allairevillage.org>.

William Gillette's "Sherlock Holmes" (adapted for the digital stage by Rachel Kohler) will be performed at the Majestic Theatre in Corvallis, Ore., on Feb. 13 <www.majestic.org> and uploaded to Facebook and Vimeo.

John Nicholson and Steven Canny's "The Hound of the Baskervilles" will be performed (and streamed) at the Mad Cow Theatre in Orlando, Fla., Mar. 15 <www.madcowtheatre.com>.

Ken Ludwig's "Baskerville" is scheduled at the Ziegfeld Theater in Ogden, Utah, Mar. 26-Apr. 10 <www.zigarts.com>; the announcement of auditions is an interesting summary of precautions some theaters are taking: "Safety: we will be taking every security measure possible throughout this process. No person will be allowed to attend our first in-person rehearsal without providing proof of receiving a negative test result for covid-19 within a week of Feb. 20. Masks will be required for all rehearsals. We will have enhanced sanitization of rehearsal and performance spaces to provide extra safety. For performances, actors will be masked off stage and possibly on stage in some scenarios."

The 2020 Christmas Annual of The Baker Street Journal celebrated the 100th anniversary of the publication of Vincent Starrett's classic pastiche "The Adventure of the Unique Hamlet", and Ray Betzner has written about the Annual, and the pastiche, at his Studies in Starrett blog; you can read all about it at <www.tinyurl.com/y4aog2a2>.

A correction: the Mystery Writers of America have announced their nominees for this year's Edgar Awards; Nev March's Murder in Old Bombay (Nov 20 #7) for best first novel by an American author (last year the novel won an MWA award for the best unpublished first crime novel), and James W. Ziskin's "The Twenty-Five Year Engagement" in In League with Sherlock Holmes (Dec 20 #2) for best short story. The winners of the Edgars will be announced on Apr. 29.

Angela Misri, whose The Detective and the Spy (Nov 20 #4) was the fourth in her series about Portia Adams, granddaughter of both Holmes and Watson, was interviewed by Shelagh Rogers on the CBC on Jan. 22; you can listen to the 17-minute interview from a link at <www.tinyurl.com/y6z5fso4>.

Warren Randall ("Harold Stackhurst") died on Jan. 26. He worked in administration at Stony Brook University on Long Island, and joined the Three Garridebs in 1987 and in 1988 he volunteered to edit the society's newsletter Prescott's Press, serving in that post for more than a quarter of a century. Warren was an enthusiastic member of most of the Sherlockian societies in New York and New Jersey, writing songs and skits for performances at their meetings, and was an expert punster. He received his Investiture from the Baker Street Irregulars in 2007.

The second issue of the Beacon Society's "Sherlock's Spotlight" (described as "a quarterly gazette for young Sherlockians everywhere") is now available for (and for sharing with) youngsters who might enjoy an introduction to the Canonical world. Anyone who wants to be on their mailing list can contact Steve Mason <mason.steve8080@gmail.com>.

The Beacon Society offers annual Jan Stauber grants of up to $750 to fund development of programs that introduce young people to Sherlock Holmes in the U.S. and Canada; the deadline for grant applications is May 1, and details are available at the society's web-site <www.tinyurl.com/h7acxds>.

Jennie Paton found an interesting article at the We Are the Mighty blog on Apr. 2, 2018 <www.wearethemighty.com/articles/army-crime-lab-mickey-mouse> about Mickey Mouse appearing in Sherlockian costume in the official logo of the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Laboratory. The logo also is on-line at the lab's web-site <www.cid.army.mil/dfsc-usacil.html#sec3>.

Feb 21 #2 The Mystery of the Parsee Lawyer: Arthur Conan Doyle, George Edalji, and the Case of the Foreigner in the English Village (London: Bloomsbury, 2021; 320 pp., £20.00) is written by Shrabani Basu, an Indian author who tells the reader about George's father Shapurji Edalji, the complicated battle over George Edalji's guilt or innocence, and the deaths of George Edalji and all of his family, with due attention to the prejudice at the time against Indians in Britain. The book's available in India, the U.K., and Australia; no plans for a U.S. edition.

R. Wolfgang Schramm's The Apocryphal Cases of Sherlock Holmes (Bloomington: Xlibris, 2010; 78 pp., $10.00) has Sherlock Holmes and Dr. James Watson investigating the shroud of Turin, the Loch Ness monster, and the Tunguska explosion.

Karen Murdock has reported an exhibition ("The Great Fog and Other London Pictures") at the Paul Mahder Gallery in Healdsburg, Calif., of paintings by Lawrence Gipe that offer a colorful idea of what London looked like in the past <www.paulmahdergallery.com/current-exhibit>.

Is "Enola Holmes" the most evil movie ever made? Yes indeed, according to Cy Kellett on the Catholic Answers Live podcast on Jan. 4 (there's a transcript, in case you don't want to listen to the entire 30-minute podcast) <www.tinyurl.com/yl2jzssz>. Reported by Jennie Paton, who does find truly weird things on-line.

When in Happisburgh: you can visit the Hill House Hotel and see the blue plaque installed there in 2006 by the Eastern Daily Press and the Norwich School of Art & Design (it says that Conan Doyle, during a visit to the hotel, was inspired to write "The Dancing Men"). The hotel now is the Happisburgh Hill House Inn <www.hillhouseinn.co.uk>, which offers a pub, dining room, coffee shop & carvery, and bed & breakfast, as well as a beer garden and the Dancing Men Brewery (plus a silhouette of Holmes at the web-site).

Alison Flood's story in the Guardian (Feb. 4) was headlined "'I Think I've Written More Sherlock Holmes Than Even Conan Doyle': The Ongoing Fight to Reimagine Sherlock Holmes" <www.tinyurl.com/4qqtfakv>; it's a good look at current and recently-past pastichery. The author who says he has written more Holmes than Conan Doyle, in case you don't want to read the article, is James Lovegrove.

Christopher Plummer died on Feb. 5. He began his acting career in Canada on stage and radio, performing in both French and English, and went on to a career that lasted almost 70 years. He played Sherlock Holmes on television in "Silver Blaze" (1977) and then on screen in "Murder by Decree" (1979), and is one of the very few actors to have played both Holmes and an actor who played Holmes, the latter on stage in "Barrymore" (1998). It has been reported that Jeremy Brett suggested that Plummer tour as Holmes in Jeremy Paul's play "The Secret of Sherlock Holmes". Plummer's autobiography In Spite of Myself: A Memoir (2008) is well worth reading, and you can watch "Silver Blaze" at YouTube <www.youtube.com/watch?v=817hs0tRCCo> where there also are clips from "Murder by Decree")

Feb 21 #3 The saga of the Lyndhurst Park Hotel continues. The Southern Daily Echo reported on Feb. 4 <www.tinyurl.com/2xluefjx> that the Hoburne Group is seeking permission to demolish most of the derelict hotel, which closed in 2014; the company wants to build 79 apartments and three commercial units on the site, and plans to retain the hotel's historic façade (the entrance and battlement-style terraces reportedly were designed by Conan Doyle in 1912).

Needless to say, there is opposition: "Residents Give Mixed Response to Lyndhurst Park Hotel Plans as Verdererers Slam Proposals' Effect on Forest" was the headline on an article in the local Advertiser & Times on Feb. 24 <www.tinyurl.com/kt3w9fby>. Official Verderer Lord Manners said that the verdererers "do not usually comment on planning applications," but are making an exception in this case. In case you are wondering, verdererers are forestry officials who deal with common land in former royal hunting areas that are the property of the Crown; the office dates from the Middle Ages, and the New Forest is of interest to them.

Entertainment Weekly reported on Feb. 22 <tinyurl.com/da2dpu2z> that the new Netflix series "The Irregulars" will debut on Mar. 26. According to showrunner Tom Bidwell, "Sherlock Holmes is in the story, it's his world, but he's not the central focus. He plays a big part of it, don't get me wrong, but it's about the kids and their journeys." The Irregulars, now a slightly older group of teens "are the only ones who can stop an impending dark magical threat from destroying London." There will be eight episodes and there's a teaser video at <www.youtube.com/watch?v=1APF6a4m74k>.

The fall/winter issue of The Magic Door (published by the Friends of the Arthur Conan Doyle Collection at the Toronto Public Library) includes articles by Doug Elliott (about annotating Conan Doyle's The White Company) and Hartley R. Nathan (about Conan Doyle's The Firm of Girdlestone), and other reports from and about the Library and the Collection. You can ask for a copy of the newsletter from Cliff Goldfarb, Toronto Public Library, 789 Yonge Street, Toronto M4W 2G8, Canada <cgoldfarb@sympatico.ca>.

The 2019 Cameron Hollyer Memorial Lecture was presented at the Library by Martin Edwards (In Sherlock's Footsteps: The Connection Between Sherlock Holmes and the Detection Club) and his paper has now been published for members of The Friends of the Arthur Conan Doyle Collection; a limited number of copies are available to people who join the Friends now. Their web-site at <www.acdfriends.org> has PayPal and credit-card capability, or you can contact Cliff Goldfarb (addresses above); the minimum donation of $35.00 brings you three issues of their newsletter and a copy of the 2020 Memorial Lecture. Edwards' presentation included a nice quote from Ronald Knox, who once wrote "A Study in Scarlet appeared in 1887, and since that date other things have been published, but it is only the detective stories that mattered."

Steve Emecz continues to host on-line Sherlockian events for MX Publishing and offers links to videos of past events <www.tinyurl.com/2p3aw6wp>; you can explore the web-site to find information on their more than 400 titles and links to a long list of Sherlockian blogs.

Feb 21 #4 Michael Cox died on Jan. 29. He began his television career as a director of episodes of Granada's television series "Coronation Street" in 1965 and went on to a long career as director and producer. He was executive producer for "Young Sherlock: The Mystery of the Manor House" (1982) and producer (from its beginning in 1984) of Granada's "Sherlock Holmes" series, in which he can be seen (uncredited) as the zoo cleaner in "The Creeping Man" (1991). His excellent A Study in Celluloid: A Producer's Account of Jeremy Brett as Sherlock Holmes (2000), reprinted by the Wessex Press <www.wessexpress.com/html/studyincelluloid.html>, offers a fascinating history of the series, and Scott Monty's warm tribute to Cox is on-line at <www.tinyurl.com/3je82yaw>.

There were virtual birthday festivities from the Sherlock Holmes Society of London last month, and their annual dinner on Jan. 16 included a Zoom performance of Bonnie MacBird's dramatization of "The Blue Carbuncle", now on-line at the Society's web-site <www.tinyurl.com/lcob324u>.

One finds all sorts of interesting things at Wikipedia, including an entry for "Sherlock Holmes fandom" (created in 2015). There also are entries for "The Baker Street Irregulars" and "The Baker Street Journal".

The success of the Netflix film "Enola Holmes" seems to have drawn renewed attention to the books about her: Bill Seil notes that Publishers Weekly has reported that Nancy Springer has a new publisher (St. Martin's Press/Wednesday Books) for two more books in the series; the first, Enola Holmes and the Black Barouche, is due in August.

Ioan Baicu offers an interesting list of Romanian material for Sherlockians and Doyleans: movie posters and translations of Sherlockian and Doylean books <www.romanian-movie-collectibles.eu/sherlock-holmes.html>.

Larry Flynt died on Feb. 10. Once called "the Horatio Alger of the sexual revolution" by the N.Y. Times, he launched Hustler as an explicit version of magazines such as Playboy and Penthouse, and reveled in the controversy that ensued. He published "The Affair of the Disappearing Dildo" (by John Hegenberger aka Dr. John H. Twatson) Nov. 1975 (noted by Ron De Waal as "a sure candidate for the most obscene parody"), as well as (at least) three Sherlockian cartoons over the years,

The Wrap reported (Feb. 22) <www.tinyurl.com/bh3febmc>, that Guy Ritchie, who directed the first two films in the Sherlock Holmes that starred Robert Downey Jr., will write and direct a film about the Baker Street Irregulars. Not the Sherlockians, but rather the Special Operations Executive; the film ("Ministry of Ungentlemanly Warfare") is based on the book by Damien Lewis that is subtitled "how Churchill's secret warriors set Europe ablaze and gave birth to modern black ops." The SOE had its headquarters in Baker Street, and they were called (by those few who knew about them) the Baker Street Irregulars).

Feb 21 #5 "Dame Judi Dench and Benedict Cumberbatch as you've never seen them before" is Howard Ostrom's description of an amusing video at YouTube <www.youtube.com/watch?v=ka47YeUj6eg> that takes you behind the scenes for a promotion recorded for Red Nose Day (which will on Mar. 19 in Britain). For adults only, perhaps, but they had fun.

Cédric Asna's imaginative Sherlock Holmes: The Beginning (Van Ryder Games, 2020; $22.99) is the first of a series of five "graphic novel adventures" that allow the reader to try to solve a mystery along with Sherlock Holmes (and it's not easy) <www.vanrydergames.com>.

Christopher Redmond's Lives Beyond Baker Street: A Biographical Dictionary of Sherlock Holmes's Contemporaries (London: MX Publishing, 2016; 299 pp., $18.95) offers a grand tour of the real and not-so-real people who are and who aren't mentioned in the Canon, with more than 400 brief (but informative) entries for people who range from George Wombwell and Sir Moses Montefiore to Mary Pickford and Marjorie Kay. MX Publishing's many books are available at a discount at <www.sherlockholmesbooks.com>.

Also from MX: Nicko Vaughan's The Adventure of the Wordy Companion (2018; 171 pp., $12.95) provides "an A-Z guide to Sherlockian phraseology" (from "a priori" to "Zeppelin"), helpful to the young (and perhaps no so young) reader.

SHERLOC and WATSON are now on Mars. The Perseverance Rover, launched last year on July 30, landed safely on Feb. 18. They are resting quietly while the National Aeronautics and Space Administration tests the Ingenuity helicopter before activating the instruments on the rover. SHERLOC and WATSON are acronymed instruments (Jun 20 #2) that contribute to the exploration of the Red Planet.

Ron Weighell died on Dec. 24. He wrote fiction in the supernatural, fantasy, and horror genres, as well as Sherlock Holmes and the Shadow of the Wolf (1992) and a collection of pastiches The Irregular Casebook of Sherlock Holmes (2000).

The Book of Extraordinary New Sherlock Holmes Stories, edited by Maxim Jakubowski (Coral Gables: Mango, 2020; 281 pp., $18.95), is an anthology offering 15 pastiches, some straightforward, some supernatural and psychological. And Breck England's The Tarleton Murders: Sherlock Holmes in America (2017; 247 pp., $18.95) is set in pre-Watson 1878, in a story told by Rev. Simon Peter Grosjean, S.J., who was at school with Holmes at Stonyhurst, and brings Holmes a mystery that takes them to Rome (where they meet the Pope) and America (where they meet characters later found in the Canon and in other writers' fiction, as well as Gen. William T. Sherman and many other historical figures).

Also from Mango: The Book of Extraordinary Amateur Sleuth and Private Eye Stories, edited by Maxim Jakubowski (2019; 267 pp., $19.95) is an anthology of new and interesting (although non-Sherlockian) stories, with a nice reward for those who look at a table of contents to decide what story to read first: Mary Harris' "The Chocolate Underpants Caper".

Feb 21 #6 Darlene A. Cypser's The Consulting Detective Trilogy Part II: On Stage (Morrison: Foolscape & Quill, 2017; 282 pp., $12.99)

continues her entertaining account of Sherlock Holmes' early life; he's no longer at Cambridge, after an explosive laboratory accident, and back in London becomes an actor with the Sassanof company, touring in England and then in the United States, hard at work honing his skills as a detective.

If you bought the 50p Sherlock Holmes coin the Royal Mint issued in 2019 thinking it would be a good investment, there were only 8,602,000 of the coins minted <www.tinyurl.com/33v6g9n>.

Margaret Maron died on Feb. 23. She was a prolific mystery author, and a Grand Master of the Mystery Writers of America. From her Corpus Christmas (1989): "People used to kill for 'noble' reasons—for revenge or honor or to usurp a throne. Today, everyone lets it 'all hang out'" ... "You can't build a believable mystery around simple scandal for its own sake anymore. Can you imagine trying to write A Scandal in Bohemia today? Instead of hiring Sherlock Holmes to retrieve that picture of himself with Irene Adler, the king would probably be trying to peddle the negatives to The National Enquirer." ... "And would probably be turned down because both parties in the picture were fully clothed."

Jennie Paton has reported some intriguing Displates offered by the English Society <www.displate.com/zeroroom/the-english-society>; a Displate is a magnet-mounted metal poster "designed to capture your unique passions.

The French television series "Lupin" (available on Netflix) stars Omay Sy as Assane Diop, a present-day gentleman thief who is inspired by Maurice Leblanc's Arsène Lupin; it's well done indeed, although so far Sherlockian only for brief glimpses in one episode of a book-cover poster for Arsène Lupin contre Sherlock Holmes. There has been quite a bit of Internet buzz about whether there will be a Sherlockian cross-over in the series, and it turns out that there well might be: George Kay, one of the creators of the series, told Radio Times (Feb. 6) that he's "really interested" in exploring the idea <www.tinyurl.com/4xexmpf7>. Stay tuned for the second season to see what develops.

The Purple Rose Theatre is partnering with the Chelsea District Library to present a reading of David MacGregor's "Sherlock Holmes and the Adventure of the Ghost Machine" on-line on Mar. 6. There's no charge to attend, and you can register at <www.tinyurl.com/4ta4avjv>.

Jacklyn Fazio's new "Sherlock Holmes: Making the Grade" is scheduled during the next Sherlock Holmes Weekend in Cape May, N.J. on Mar. 19-21, and it will be repeated on Oct. 29-Nov. 7 <www.tinyurl.com/28273yxd>.

Craig Wichman's dramatization of "The Blue Carbuncle" will be performed at the Cape May Presbyterian Church in Cape May, N.J., from Oct. 29 to Nov. 6 <www.eastlynnetheater.org>.

Benedict Cumberbatch designed a statue of Paddington Bear in Sherlockian costume, one of 50 statues on display in London to promote the film when it was released in 2014 (Nov 14 #3), and it sold at a charity auction for £17,000 (Jan 15 #4). There's an interesting interview with David Field, who sculpted the statues, at a Hungarian web-site for Sherlockian; it's in English, at <www.tinyurl.com/mpaavhc4>.

It has been said that Sherlockian chronology is the most abstract and confusing and contradictory aspect of the grand game that Sherlockians enjoy playing, and now there's a Sherlockian Chronologist Guild, founded by Brad Keefauver, who edits and publishes their electronic newsletter Timeline. If you would like to join the Guild, or merely see an issue of their newsletter, you can contact Brad at <bkeefauver@gmail.com>.

It's always interesting to see people quoting Sherlock Holmes from outside the Canon, as in a PsychTests press release (Feb. 27) noted by Karen Murdock <www.tinyurl.com/j9ar3pub>: "No one epitomizes the cool use of logic like Sherlock Holmes, who sliced through ignorance and ambiguity with his sharp, precise intellect. 'Sentiment,' he once remarked, 'is a chemical defect found on the losing side.'" Where and when did Sherlock Holmes say that?

If you enjoyed the first episodes of "Lupin" on Netflix (Feb 21 #6), you will welcome the rest of the first season, due this summer; here's a brief teaser <www.youtube.com/watch?v=OWawfOIJLZI>.

Jeff Falkingham's Focusing the Lens on Doyle and Holmes (Monee: Frontier Fantasies, 2021; 78 pp., $6.99) offers 13 chapters that include his personal essays, scholarly studies, limericks, and book and film reviews, all nicely illustrated; his web-site is at <www.cccaper.com>.

"When times are tough, we turn to detective fiction," according to Stephen Armstrong in The Sunday Times on Mar. 7 (in a review of the new television series "Unforgotten"). "Arthur Conan Doyle's first Sherlock Holmes story was published during the long depression of 1873-96," he added. "Raymond Chandler's hardboiled 'tec sprang from the 1930s slump. In 2020, as the pandemic ravaged us all, detective fiction offered resolution and even a sense of justice being done." There was indeed a Long Depression in Western Europe and North America, according to Wikipedia (in the United Kingdom it was called the Great Depression of British Agriculture). I don't recall any Sherlockian scholarship that addresses the economic situation when the early stories were written and published.

Leonard Goldberg's new The Abduction of Pretty Penny (New York: Minotaur Books, 2021; 340 pp., $26.99), is the fifth in his series that stars Sherlock Holmes' daughter Joanna Blalock, who learned much from her father and is working with Dr. John H. Watson and his son Dr. John H. Watson Jr. to rescue a young actress who has gone missing; they quickly find that she is a captive of Jack the Ripper, who has reappeared 28 years after his reign of terror in Whitechapel and soon threatens Joanna herself. The author's web-site is at <www.leonardgoldberg.com>.

Mar 21 #2 Radric Delantic Davis (known professionally as Gucci Mane) is an American rapper with a long list of studio albums and mix-tapes, and an interesting entry at Wikipedia. The Music Ally web-site reported on Mar. 4 <www.tinyurl.com/3jzkz785y> that a group called MSCHF has created Project Gucciberg with a deep-faked version of Gucci Mane's voice deployed to read classic works of literature, including "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" <www.projectgucciberg.mschfmag.com>. Here's your chance to hear a rapper's "A Scandal in Bohemia".

Trevor Peacock died on Mar. 8. He had a long career on British television beginning in 1961, appeared also on stage, and wrote for musicals; he was best known for his role as Jim Trott in the series "The Vicar of Dibley" on the BBC (1994-2015), he also played Sidney Prince in the Royal Shakespeare Company's revival of William Gillette's "Sherlock Holmes" in 1974 in London, Washington, and New York.

A tip of the deerstalker to Roger Johnson who has reported the interesting RadioEchoes web-site <www.radioechoes.com>, which offers access to 99,842 episodes, of which there are 574 hits for [sherlock] in the comedy and detective genres, some of which have not previously been available (such as five of the eight episodes of the "Sherlock Holmes" series adapted by Michael Hardwick and broadcast by the BBC Light Programme in 1962, starring Carleton Hobbs and Norman Shelley).

So: where and when did Sherlock Holmes say, "Sentiment is a chemical defect found on the losing side"? Paige Bigelow was quick to answer: in "A Scandal in Belgravia" (2012) <www.youtube.com/watch?v=utwenXbh9hA>.

Nicola Pagett died on Mar. 3. She launched her acting career at the age of 8 in a school play, and went on to a long career on stage and then in television; her break-out role was Elizabeth Bellamy in "Upstairs, Downstairs" (1971-1973), and she played Countess Nadja in "Anonymous Letters" in the series "The Rivals of Sherlock Holmes" (1973).

Gender and the Modern Sherlock Holmes: Essays on Film and Television Adaptations Since 2009, edited by Nadine Farghaly (Jefferson: McFarland & Co., 2015; 252 pp., $29.95), is a collection of discussions by (mostly) academic writers about the sexuality of, and the relations between, characters in Robert Downey Jr. "Sherlock Holmes" films and the "Sherlock" and "Elementary" television series. It can be interesting examining footnotes and citations such books, and making discoveries such as:

Ariane Devere's list of interests includes barbershop singing, Formula One Grand Prix, and (most importantly for readers of this newsletter) Sherlock Holmes, and devoted fans of the BBC's "Sherlock" series will welcome her transcripts of every episode <www.arianedevere.livejournal.com>. They are in fact more than transcripts, since they include her commentaries of what is happening as well as on what is being said.

Herewith a reminder that the International Sherlock Holmes Exhibition will be open at the Minnesota Historical Center in St. Paul, Minn., from Oct. 1 through Mar. 21, 2022 <www.mnhs.org>. The exhibition, created by the Exhibits Development Group, has been on tour since 2013, and there's an impressive web-site <www.tinyurl.com/y9b7yq83> where EDG promotes the exhibition to museums that might want to put it on display.

Mar 21 #3 The saga of the Lyndhurst Park Hotel continues. The local Advertiser & Times reported (Mar. 4) <www.tinyurl.com/p2eam9cv> that the Parish Council has recommended approval of the redevelopment, despite the plan calling for only eight affordable homes even though the New Forest National Park Authority's policy calls for 50 affordable homes on the site. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is said to have designed the entrance of the hotel and its battlement-style terraces in 1912, and the Daily Telegraph reported on Mar. 20 <www.tinyurl.com/p3a4482e> on a new discovery by local historian Brice Stratford in Portsmouth's Arthur Conan Doyle Collection of a sketch showing that his design for the front façade "was based on the spiritual view of the journey of the soul."

Ronald Pickup died on Feb. 24. He began his acting career on stage with the National Theatre Company in 1964 (earning praise from Laurence Olivier), and went on to a longer career that included films, radio, and television. He played Barrymore in Granada's "The Hound of the Baskervilles" (1988), Sherlock Holmes in "The Singular Case of Sherlock H. and Sigmund F." on BBC Radio 3 (1988), the Narrator in BBC-1's Merrison/Williams "The Valley of Fear" on BBC-1 (1997), and Sir John Starr in "Murder Rooms: The White Knight Stratagem" (2001).

Here's a somewhat unusual hansom cab, at auction in Switzerland this month: a German wind-up sheet-metal toy, color lithographed and hand-lacquered, made ca. 1910/20, and there's more information available at <www.tinyurl.com/ydkrr5mv>. It was estimated at 900-1800 CFH [Swiss francs], and sold for 1100 CHF [or about $1175].

The 38th (2020) issue of Beaten's Christmas Annual has been published by The Sound of the Baskervilles of Seattle; it has 77 pages of scholarship (including an interesting article by Daniel Polvere about George Macy, who presided over the Limited Editions Club when it issued its landmark edition of the Canon), quizzes, theatric, artwork, and reports on the society and its members. The annual costs $13.00 postpaid (or $20.00 outside the U.S.); checks (in U.S. dollars, please) payable to The Sound of the Baskervilles can be sent to Terri Haugen, 6710 51st Street Court West, University Place, WA 98467.

Something new for fans of "Doctor Who": Mark Gatiss revealed in an interview in Radio Times (Mar. 14) <www.tinyurl.com/2zry963s> that he briefly considered having Conan Doyle appear in "The Crimson Horror" (2013). "The original pitch was going to have Conan Doyle in it," he said, but the idea didn't make it past the plotting stage. "There certainly wasn't a first draft with Doyle," Gatiss recalled, "but he does deserve his own story, so maybe some day."

The Three Locks, by Bonnie MacBird (London: Collins Crime Club, 2021; 412 pp., $26.99), is the fourth in her series of pastiches, and a prequel, set in 1887 and involving Holmes and Watson with stage magicians in London and with students and dons at Cambridge; it's nicely done, and a welcome addition to the series. The story is told with style and surprises, and there is a personal mystery for Watson. Her web-site <www.macbird.com> has interesting and colorful annotations for all of the books in the series.

Mar 21 #4 Richard T. Ryan's The Vatican Cameos (London: MX Publishing, 2016; 319 pp., $16.95) alternates between the early 16th century, when Pope Alexander VI commissions Michelangelo to create the cameos, and the early 20th century, when Pope Leo XIII needs assistance from Holmes and Watson in recovering the cameos after they're stolen from the Vatican and the papacy is threatened. MX Publishing's books are available at a discount at <www.sherlockholmesbooks.com>.

The Scotsman reported on Mar. 13 <www.tinyurl.com/yzsryxur> on an on-line exhibition ("Photographing Fairies") at the Stills center for photography in Edinburgh <www.stills.org/exhibitions/photographing-fairies>; it's colorful and interesting, and there's a 50-page exhibition book available for download.

Adler was a five-issue comic-book mini-series written by Lavie Tidhar and drawn by Paul McCafferty, and it's now available as a graphic novel (London: Titan Comics, 2021; 128 pp., $16.95); "it's time to meet the League of Extraordinary Gentlewomen" is the premise, in a story set in London in 1902, when Irene is involved with a host of heroines and villains (Canonical and otherwise) in a battle to save London. There also is a colorful gallery of the mini-series covers, and a gallery of the artist's designs for many of the characters.

Umberto Eco's best-selling novel The Name of the Rose (1980) was a medieval mystery that featured William of Baskerville as its detective, while confusing many readers with passages in Latin, including its last sentence (Stat rosa pristina nomine, nomina nuda tenemus). Lion Heart Autographs offers a letter from Eco in which he explains the meaning of the sentence <www.tinyurl.com/3vcas7r7>.

This month all residents of England and Wales were legally obliged to complete a census form for the Office of National Statistics, or face a fine of up to £1,000, according to a story in the magazine Country Life (Mar. 6) <www.tinyurl.com/2bmajhum> that explains, among other things, when the first British census was held. Has anyone ever checked the 1890s census records to see who lived at 221B Baker Street, wherever it might have been at the time?

The "Holmes in the Heartland" scheduled in St. Louis on July 9-11 has been cancelled. It's the latest casualty of the pandemic, according to an announcement from The Parallel Case of St. Louis, and they hope to be able to hold the conference safely, sooner rather than later.

Accidental discoveries can be great fun; Anders Wiggström recently held a lottery for members of the Baskerville Hall Club (in Sweden), offering a copy of Patrick Kincaid's The Continuity Girl (London: Unbound, 2018; 268 pp.), described by the publisher <www.unbound.com> as "a comic love story in which the discovery of a long-lost version of a cult movie sheds light on a 45-year-old love affair between a Hollywood filmmaker and a real-life Loch Ness monster hunter." The movie, of course, is "The Private Life of Sherlock Holmes" (1970), and the story alternates between Scotland in 1969 and London and Scotland in 2013 and 2014, and it's a pleasure to read.

Mar 21 #5 The Lima Symphony Orchestra began streaming a performance of "Sherlock Holmes and the Case of the Missing Maestro" on Mar. 20, with Andrew Crust as the conductor and Enrico Lopez-Yañez as Sherlock Holmes; there's a teaser at www.youtube.com/watch?v=MbG2uynt564, and you can watch the performance at www.limasymphony.com.

Dr. John H. Watson's Last Chronicles, by C. Alfred Lewis, Sr. (Charleston: CreateSpace, 2010; 81 pp., $5.95), is an account of events at the end of the partnership of Holmes and Watson, and the results of Holmes' experiments with bees in his retreat on the Sussex Downs.

John Hillman describes his "Travels Through Time" podcast as "a mixture of serious history and a playful parlour game," and you can hear Peter Moore interview Shrabani Basu, author of The Mystery of the Parsee Lawyer: Arthur Conan Doyle, George Edalji, and the Case of the Foreigner in the English Village (Feb 21 #2) at www.tinyurl.com/pn2fs96.

Laurie R. King's next Mary Russell novel, Castle Shade (Oct 20 #5), is due in June, and you'll find an amusing promotional video, and more news about Laurie, at www.tinyurl.com/wfuuxe6p.

The Bavarian poet and painter Carl Spitzweg (1808-1885) is perhaps best known for "Der Bücherwurm" [The Bookworm]. It is an image that resonates with book collectors, and Anders Wiggström (of the Baskerville Hall Club in Sweden) has found and kindly forwarded) this amusingly-edited version on the Internet.

"Tell Me More" was a 30-minute television series broadcast by BBC-1, and on July 9, 1977, the program included a 6-minute segment with Nanette Newman interviewing Lord Gore-Booth (the president of the Sherlock Holmes Society of London) and Chris Bazlinton (Sherlock Holmes' secretary at Abbey National) www.archive.org/details/twitter-1148630309434482690; thanks to Jennie Paton for finding the clip on-line.

On Nov. 13, 1968, Sir Paul (as he was then) was the castaway on BBC Radio 4's "Desert Island Discs"; he briefly discussed his participation in the Society's first tour of Switzerland, and you can listen to a 12-minute extract from the program at www.bbc.co.uk/sounds/play/p009y1j7.

Buckingham Palace announced on Mar. 1 that "The Duke of Edinburgh was today transferred from King Edward VII's Hospital to St. Bartholomew's Hospital where doctors will continue to treat him for an infection, as well as undertake testing and observation for a pre-existing heart condition." He underwent a successful heart procedure on Mar. 3, returned to King Edward VII's Hospital for rest and recuperation, and then left the hospital on Mar. 16 to return to Windsor Castle.

Prince Philip, now 99 years old, was initially admitted to hospital as a precautionary measure after feeling unwell; Barts, founded in 1123, is the oldest hospital in Britain still providing medical services on its original site. It is well known to Sherlockians, of course, as the location of the first meeting of Holmes and Watson.

Mar 21 #6 Robert Downey Jr. had a spectacular fight scene in "Sherlock Holmes" (2009), and there is a detailed and interesting analysis of the fight by a British doctor named Ed Hope that is available at YouTube <www.youtube.com/watch?v=hmltHCrXklQ>. Bob Katz (also a doctor, and one who knows whereof he speaks when it comes matters medical), says that the analysis is "very well done and comprehensive."

Frank Mills died on Feb. 11. He began acting on television in Britain in 1958, and was perhaps best known for his starring role in the ITV series "Coronation Street". He also played Commissionaire Peterson in Granada's "The Blue Carbuncle" (1984).

Cliff Goldfarb has kindly forwarded a Mar. 17 article about Sherlock's Hats in Jerusalem <www.tinyurl.com/rw63cfz7>; it's an emporium that happily offers deerstalkers and many other styles of headgear. You can explore the shop in 3D at <www.sherlockshats.com>, and look for the picture of Sherlock Holmes.

Country Life published an interesting article ("Who Created the Your Country Needs YOU Poster") on Mar. 13, and you can read the article on-line at <www.tinyurl.com/23nze82p>. The poster is one of most iconic images of World War One, and the artist was Alfred Leete, who was best known, perhaps, for his work for Punch, but he also was a prolific illustrator in The Strand Magazine from 1912 to 1932, including, in Oct. 1915, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's article "An Outing in War-Time".

"An Outing in War-Time" seems not to have been reprinted, so it is only in the Strand (and now here) that one can see his portrait of Conan Doyle, sitting in a railway-carriage with a wounded veteran. It is interesting to consider how much the illustration echoes the now-iconic Sidney Paget illustration that shows Watson and Holmes on their way by rail to Exeter to investigate the disappearance of Silver Blaze.

The Internet is a great source for Sherlockian cartoons that may not turn up in your daily newspaper, such as "The Flying McCoys" (which was Sherlockian on Mar. 6) <www.gocomics.com/theflyingmccoys/2021/03/06>; kindly reported by John Bergquist.

In case you were worried about the bats at Highwell House (Dec 20 #7), the home of Cate Blanchett in Crowborough, the Tatler reported on Jan. 12 that that the Wealdon district council has granted permission to demolish the cottage on the grounds, provided that a "bat mitigation strategy" is implemented <www.tinyurl.com/y44x8r7z>. Press reports continue to say that Tom Baker and Conan Doyle lived at Highwell house; it's true that Tom Baker did, but Sir Arthur lived nearby at Windlesham.

Ken Ludwig has written three Sherlockian plays ("Postmortem", "The Game's Afoot", and "Baskerville") and many others, and there's a lot about them all at his web-site <www.kenludwig.com>; click on the menu (the three horizontal bars at upper right) and then on [media] and [thoughts on comedy].

Mar 21 #7 Sherlock Holmes, The Missing Years: Japan, by Vasudev Murthy (Scottsdale: Poisoned Pen, 2015; 270 pp., $24.95), is an account of some of Holmes' adventures (with Watson) during the Great Hiatus, on their travels from London to Tokyo, via Alexandria, Bombay, Calcutta, Angkor Wat, Saigon, Nagasaki, and Kyoto, all the while attempting to foil Professor Moriarty's evil plans.

Otto Penzler plans to celebrate the publication of The Three Locks with an on-line conversation with Bonnie MacBird and Dan Stashower, on Apr. 13 at 6:00 pm DST. Details will be available at the Mysterious Bookshop's website <www.mysteriousbookshop.com/pages/events>.

How to Instantly Size-Up Strangers Like Sherlock Holmes, by Mark A. Williams, Sr. (South Richmond Hill: Real Deal, 2014; 384 pp., $26.79) offers a detailed examination of the many ways in which Holmes observed, drew inferences, and reached conclusions, and explains how you too can try to do the same.

Sherlockiana, the newsletter of the Sherlock Holmes Klubben i Danmark, now in its 66th year and edited by Svend Ranild, has in its first issue of 2021 some delightful artwork by Michael Skov Lambeck, thoroughly appropriate for these lockdown days, which will end sooner rather than later as more and more of us are being vaccinated.

"A crew of misfits investigates a series of supernatural crimes in Victorian London for Dr. Watson and his shadowy associate, Sherlock Holmes," is the premise of the new eight-episode series "The Irregulars" (launched on Netflix on Mar. 26). No spoilers here, in case you haven't watched it yet (or are refusing to watch it), although the Internet is full of buzz about the series (as was the case with Netflix' earlier series "Enola Holmes").

There have been some interesting articles about the series, including one in Radio Times (Mar. 26) <www.tinyurl.com/5b8k92vk>. It would appear that there's a lot of binge-watching in Britain: Radio Times also provided (on Mar. 26) an explanation of the ending of the series, with a firm warning about spoilers <www.tinyurl.com/mfhw9s>.

"An Evening with Jeremy Brett's Sherlock Holmes" is the title of an interesting two-hour presentation arranged by Steve Emecz for MX Publishing on Mar. 27 <www.youtube.com/watch?v=6h1rFs1Ls34>, featuring the premiere of a performance by Jonathan Goodwin, a reading from Maureen Whittaker's Jeremy Brett Is Sherlock Holmes, and a panel of admirers.

Mar 21 #8 Elizabeth Crowens' A Pocketful of Lodestones (New York: Atomic Alchemist, 2019; 314 pp., $20.00), a sequel to her Silent Meridian in her The Time Traveler Professor series (Oct 18 #4), is a complicated time-shifting novel that involves a set of parallel (and sometimes supernatural) universes; Conan Doyle as one of the characters. The author's web-site is at <www.elizabethcrowens.com>.

Catherine Cooke reports that the City of Westminster Libraries & Archives will present "A Sherlock Holmes Adventure" via Microsoft Teams on May 20, to celebrate Bonnie MacBird's The Three Locks <www.tinyurl.com/xr78y3hz>.

The Spanish artist Marco Navas offered a "Sherlockians" collection with 12 7-cm figurines some years ago (Nov 14 #5), hand-crafted in resin and hand-painted, and there's now a new "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" collection that begins with a graphic scene from "The Hound of the Baskervilles" <www.marconavas.com/Sherlock%20Holmes.html>. The web-site is in Spanish, and in English at <www.marconavas.com/EESherlock%20Holmes.html>.

"It was a very good year." 1887 is, of course, important as the year in which the first Sherlock Holmes story appeared, but it also marked Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee, which was celebrated by the Royal Mint with a rarely-issued £5 golden sovereign. The Royal Mint now does more than provide Great Britain with its coinage; it's now a state-owned limited company that also deals in old coins, including the Golden Jubilee £5 sovereign (the first £5 sovereign ever minted), which they are advertising for a mere £3,950 <www.tinyurl.com/2mjncs4u>. There also was a Golden Jubilee £2 sovereign, available for only £1,720.

Christopher Walsh's "Miss Holmes" will be performed at Colorado Mesa University in Grand Junction, Colo., Apr. 8-11, with audio of the production streamed on Apr. 14-22 <www.tinyurl.com/ya84htwa>.

Ken Ludwig's "Baskerville" (scheduled at the Longwood University Theatre in Farmville, Va., last year but postponed due to the coronavirus) will be produced and streamed on Apr. 14-18 <www.blogs.longwood.edu/theatre>. And it is scheduled at the Windhover Center for the Performing Arts in Rockport, Mass., July 2-25 <www.windhover.org>.

Cardinal Stage is presenting a walkabout radio-play series featuring two original Sherlock Holmes mysteries set in Bloomington, Ind. "Sherlock in Btown" will be presented in April, according to an article in the Indiana Daily Student (Mar. 3) <www.tinyurl.com/y6kv5k2x>. The two plays are Liam Castellán's "Predisposed to Violins" (beginning Apr. 15) and Bruce Walsh's "John Watson, PhD" (Apr. 23); more information will be found at their web-site <www.cardinalstage.com/mainstage/walkabout-radio-plays>. If you're not able to walk the route, Cardinal will be providing a visual companion featuring photos of the walk, allowing you to enjoy the self-guided option from home.

A public service announcement: now that vaccines have become widely available, and more and more people are being vaccinated, it is possible that (at least) some people have not been fully advised on how important it can be to safeguard your vaccination records, because if they are lost it may not be possible to replace them. So: you should photograph or scan your card and store the image on your smart phone and other devices. You also should make copies of your card, for your wallet and for your files, and keep the original safe with your important papers, to tide you over until official vaccine passports are available for those who want to travel to other countries, or even within the United States. And do deliver a copy of the record to your primary care physician.

"Her letters to the flighty soldier are, without a doubt, among the great literary monuments that women of talent have, with relative frequency, erected to total good-for-nothings." That's from the chapter on "Julie de Lespinasse" (subtitled "The Amorous Mistress") in Javier Marías' Written Lives (New York: New Directions, 2007; 200 pp., $14.95). There also are chapters on many other writers (including "Arthur Conan Doyle and Women"), in a book that Michael Dirda correctly called "an immensely enjoyable collection of vignettes."

The Chinese animated film "The Great Detective Sherlock Holmes: The Jail-Breaker" (2019) has been dubbed in English (and with sub-titles) and released on an 84-minute DVD as "Sherlock Holmes and the Great Escape" from Shout Factory ($19.98); all of the characters are animals, and it's nicely done; you can see previews at YouTube.

The Adventure of the Oakshott Trunk, by C. Alfred Lewis, Sr. (Charleston: CreateSpace, 2010; 50 pp., $6.95), is a revised second edition of a story about Holmes and Watson's success in rescuing a young client while thwarting an evil villain.

Les Enfants Terribles, a theatre company that was founded in 2001, created "The Game's Afoot" for Madame Tussaud's in London a few years ago, and now offers "The Case of the Hung Parliament" as an "immersive on-line experience" <www.sherlockimmersive.com> (described by one Sherlockian as "utterly delightful" but "not for purists").

Howard Ostrom discovered "Dave Gorman's Terms & Conditions Apply" channel on the Internet, with an episode on "Guessing Weird Acronyms" that you can watch at YouTube <www.youtube.com/watch?v=hqoNZnMs-fk>. Two of the acronyms are HOLMES, one them the Home Office Large Major Enquires System, and the other Hunting cOol Low Mass Extrasolar planets (which does seem to be a cheat).

"As a small kid in South Africa in the late 60s and 70s, I didn't see anything unusual about being called Sherlock Holmes. He wasn't a well-known character there at that time." That's from an interview in Metro UK (Apr. 1) <www.tinyurl.com/kwmb2vj5> with a present-day Sherlock Holmes (who was named after his father, whose mother had a sense of humor).

Apr 21 #2 The Case of the Displaced Detective: The Arrival, by Stephanie Osborn (Kingsport: Twilight Times, 2011; 326 pp., $19.95), is the first in a science fiction/mystery series in which Holmes has survived his battle with Moriarty at the Reichenbach having been transported to an alternate universe thanks to Project Tesseract, a government project supervised by Skye Chadwick, who becomes both his protector and his assistant. The author's web-site is at <www.stephanie-osborn.com>.

Britain is celebrating the 150th anniversary of the opening of the Royal Albert Hall in London, and there was a well-illustrated report on its history published by the BBC News on Mar. 29 <www.bbc.com/news/uk-england-london-56428543>. The Royal Mint also is celebrating the event with a £5 coin; details on the coin are at <www.tinyurl.com/53ns63sn>.

It should be noted that Conan Doyle appeared at least twice in the Royal Albert Hall, the first time in 1901, when he was one of the judges at the world's first body-building contest, orchestrated by the strong man Eugene Sandow, and the second time in 1929, when he spoke during an Armistice Day spiritualist assembly. He may (or may not) have appeared a third time in 1930, during a spiritual memorial service in which a clairvoyant tried to contact him before an audience of 10,000 people; his widow, Lady Jean Conan Doyle, said that the event was "cheering and encouraging."

Steve Doyle's video podcasts (for the Baker Street Irregulars) continue at YouTube; search for [fortnightly dispatch] to watch interviews with David Stuart Davies, Rebecca Romney, and Roger Johnson.

Many Sherlockians have seen and enjoyed the International Sherlock Holmes Exhibition, which will be at the Science Museum of Oklahoma, May 1-Sept. 6 <www.sciencemuseumok.org>. Created by the Exhibits Development Group, the exhibition has an impressive web-site <www.tinyurl.com/y9b7yq83> where the company promotes the exhibition to museums that might consider putting it on display. The exhibition is scheduled next at the Frost Science Center in Miami, Fla., May 14-Sept. 5, 2022 (the appearance at the Minnesota Historical Center in St. Paul, Minn., has been postponed).

Christopher Redmond's A Sherlockian History of England, a new 28-page monograph that traces the country's history from prehistoric times into the Victorian era as echoed in the Canon; it is nicely done, and conveniently available as a free PDF file from Chris at <redmond2@execulink.com>; ink-on-paper copies are available for US$5.00 or CA$6.00 (postpaid) via PayPal or Interac.

Sherlock Holmes y la Conspiración de Barcelona written by Sergio Colomino and illustrated in full color by Jordi Palomé (Barcelona: Norma Editorial, 2012; 152 pp., $19.65) is an attractive example of graphic novels in other languages; it's set in 1893, during the Great Hiatus, with Holmes in dire peril in Barcelona. It's available from Amazon in Spanish and in Catalan, and the publisher's web-site is at <www.normaeditorial.com>. Also available from Amazon is their Sherlock Holmes y el Legado de Moriarty (2016), and Colomino's Sherlock Holmes de Hayao Miyazaki (2020), both in Spanish.

Apr 21 #3 Ridley Pearson's Lock and Key: The Initiation (New York: HarperCollins, 2016; 419 pp., $17.99) is the first volume in his trilogy about twelve-year-old Moria Moriarty. She's at school at Baskerville Academy, near Boston, where her older brother James is the roommate of Sherlock Holmes, and the series, written for young adults (age 8+) presents a well-told origin story for the boys who wind up arch enemies. The other two books in the series are The Downward Spiral (2017) and The Final Step (2018); the author has a web-site <www.ridleypearson.com>, where you can download a free prequel short story The Gadwell Incident.

John Christopher's The London of Sherlock Holmes (Stroud: Amberley, 2012; 96 pp., £11.99) offers a tour of Canonical locations, with an attractive variety of period photographs and illustrations; the publisher's web-site is at <www.amberley-books.com>.

Learn French with Sherlock Holmes and Learn Spanish with Sherlock Holmes (Dublin: Diglot, 2020) offer an intriguing approach to learning languages; each book has the text of "A Study in Scarlet" and "The Hound of the Baskervilles" in English, and page by page introduces more and more words in the foreign language, helping the reader understand context and meaning, without the need to focus on translation and grammar. Both of the books are available at Amazon ($15.20 each), and you can use the "look inside" feature to see how the system works. Diglot's web-site at <www.diglot.ie> offers a look at all their languages and authors, and they're on Instagram @diglotsocial, for those who want to know what's new with the company.

Sandra de Helen's The Hounding (McCorkle Ink, 2013; 168 pp., $14.57) features Shirley Combs (who would like to be the world's greatest detective) and Dr. Mary Watson in a murder mystery set in modern-day Portland. The sequel, The Illustrious Client (2013), has them investigating a series of murders, in the midst of which Mary finds romance (although not with Shirley). The author's web-site <www.sandradehelen.com> includes a video interview about the first book.

Olivia Rutigliano suggests that "Once you eliminate the least compelling Sherlock Holmes performances, whatever remains, no matter how improbable, must be the best" in her article "The 100 Best, Worst, and Strangest Sherlock Holmes Portrayals of All-Time, Ranked" posted to the CrimeReads blog on Apr. 8 <www.crimereads.com/100-sherlock-holmes-ranked>, kindly reported by Les Klinger. One can agree or disagree with her choices, and comments, but it is interesting to consider how many (or few) people there are who actually have seen all 100 of the portrayals.

"Both in the books and on screen, Sherlock is shown to be fond of his tea, and so we infused vodka with Earl Grey tea. He's also found with a glass of wine, and we made a beetroot and wine reduction, making it look a little like blood for all the murder mysteries he's solved. Add to it a hint of rose for his unrequited hostility toward women, and a little fresh lime to balance it all. The very English gherkin pickles are added to it. We serve it with Sherlock's iconic magnifying glass." That's the recipe for "Sherlock in a Pickle" a cocktail reported (with an image) by Bill Seil in the Asian Age <www.tinyurl.com/39bfv9ch>.

Apr 21 #4 Printer's Error, by J. P. Romney and Rebecca Romney (New York: Harper, 2017; 353 pp., $26.00), is subtitled "irreverent stories from book history," and it's a delightful excursion into the world of books and those who create them. It is not really Sherlockian (although Arthur Conan Doyle and Christopher Morley are quoted), but it is full of great stories, and Rebecca (who is "That Gap on the Second Shelf" in the Baker Street Irregulars) presides over Type Punch Matrix, with an on-line catalog <www.typepunchmatrix.com> that does not neglect the Canon in its offerings of interesting and rare books.

J. K. Van Dover's The Detective and the Artist: Painters, Poets, and Writers in Crime Fiction, 1840s-1970s (Jefferson, McFarland & Co., 2019; 188 pp., $55.00) explores artists in the detective genre, as detectives, villains, and victims, from Poe's Dupin through the hard-boiled detectives, with (of course) detailed discussion of the Sherlock Holmes stories.

Christopher Redmond wonders, "Can you name two literary works that never mention Sherlock Holmes but are coveted by Sherlockian collectors everywhere?" in his article in the spring issue of Canadian Holmes (published quarterly by the Bootmakers of Toronto). The literary works are "Food for Poser" and "The Four Leaved Shamrock" (two drawing-room plays that accompanied "A Study in Scarlet" in Beeton's Christmas Annual for 1887); Chris has some interesting commentary about the plays and their authors. Canadian Holmes costs $30.00 a year (US or CA), and single issues cost $12.00 <www.torontobootmakers.com>.

Nikki Stafford's Investigating Sherlock: The Unofficial Guide (Oct 15 #4) was an insightful companion to the first three seasons of the series, with discussions of its history, analysis, and commentary on each episode. She hasn't updated the book, but her blog <www.nikkistafford.blogspot.com> has her commentary on "The Abominable Bride" and many other television series.

The Washington Post ran a "March Madness" poll to determine the greatest fictional detective <www.tinyurl.com/9d29c9y3>, with 32 bracketed choices; the winner was Armand Gamache, with Sherlock Holmes in second place. The poll still is up and running, so you can still vote (and see how many of the detectives you actually recognize). It has been suggested that fans of Louise Penny's books carried out an organized campaign in favor of her detective.

Quartet Records has released a "50th Anniversary Special Edition" CD for "The Private Life of Sherlock Holmes" (€21.95) <www.tinyurl.com/54ykk6y8>; it's a remastered version of their 2013 CD, with additional material that includes a bonus track of "Gabrielle" (omitted from the 2013 version).

"Spring Cleaning the Old-Fashioned Way" is the title of an article posted on-line by English Heritage on Mar. 19 <www.tinyurl.com/bx82cxa5>, with a link to an instructive video, offering a look at some of things that Mrs. Hudson did (or perhaps tried to do) when it came to clean-up time. There also is Lucy Lethbridge's Mind Your Manors: Tried-and-True British Household Cleaning Tips (2016), noted with commentary in Maria Cramer's article in the N.Y. Times on Mar. 21 <www.tinyurl.com/9sbecdyf>.

Apr 21 #5 "Meitantei Conan" [Detective Conan] was first a Japanese manga comic-book series created by Gyosho Aoyama, developed into a long-running animated television series, and then animated films; Shinichi Kudo is a 17-year-old master detective who has been turned by villains into a child, and assumes the name Conan Edogawa (in tribute to Arthur Conan Doyle) and pursues evil-doers. The character is still popular. The Japan Times reported on Apr. 14 <www.tinyurl.com/5zzm4aw> that a train station in central Japan has (briefly) been renamed "Meitantei Conan" to celebrate this month's release of a new film "Detective Conan: The Scarlet Bullet".

SHERLOC and WATSON are alive and well on Mars, as you will see if you go to <www.apod.nasa.gov/apod/astropix.html> and click on the Calendar link at the bottom of the page, and then on the image for Apr. 3.

"There's a genre of Sherlock Holmes story that starts brilliantly," Steven Moffat said, Radio Times reported (July 20, 2020), "and obviously someone comes to the door and suggests to Sir Arthur that maybe a game of cricket is in the offing, and he just dashes an ending rather quickly. Five Or-Orange Pips and the Engineer's Thumb both fall foul of that. But they've got great beginnings!" <www.tinyurl.com/7kwfpvp2>.

Will Thomas' Dance with Death (New York: Minotaur, 2021; 307 pp., $27.99) is the latest in his excellent series that features private enquiry agent Cyrus Barker (an homage to Holmes' rival in "The Retired Colourman") and his assistant Thomas Llewelyn; it's now 1893, and they're involved in combatting an attempt to assassinate the future czar of Russian, who is visiting London for a royal wedding; strong characters are the mark of a good series, and as usual, the plot is interesting and the story well told.

Stefan Bechtel and Laurence Roy Stains' Through a Glass Darkly (New York: St. Martin's Press, 2017; 303 pp., $26.99) reports in detail on "Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and the quest to solve the greatest mystery of all"; the authors note that they "are not true believers," adding "but it's fair to say we don't not believe," and address both sides of the lengthy argument over Spiritualism.

"Tobacco for the cigars was sourced from as far as Cuba and was fermented in fruits, jaggery, and honey, giving them their unique taste," according the News Minute (Feb. 18) <www.tinyurl.com/pxzkr7st>, in a story about the Trichinopoly cigar. It appears that cigars made in Trichinopoly are still available for purchase in India <www.tinyurl.com/5f7dr9dm>, although perhaps not with the same flavor as the cigar smoked by Jefferson Hope (in "A Study in Scarlet").

Matt Wingett's The Mysteries of Portsmouth (Portsmouth: Life Is Amazing, 2019; 107 pp., £10.00) includes his acknowledgement that "while many stories in this book are explicable, many appear not to be," and among those stories is his brief account about "Conan Doyle and the Paranormal". Matt earlier published an excellent facsimile of Beeton's Christmas Annual for 1887, Conan Doyle and the Mysterious World of Light 1887-1920, and Portsmouth: A Literary and Pictorial Tour, (Feb 19 #6), and all his books are available at <www.lifeisamazing.co.uk>.

Apr 21 #6 Paul T. Gilbert's Sherlock Holmes and the Unholy Trinity (London: Robert Hall, 205; 222 pp., £19.99) is his version of two of the unrecorded cases ("The Death of Cardinal Tosca" and "The Coptic Patriarchs"), and it takes Holmes and Watson to Italy and Egypt in a battle against a mysterious and malignant enemy. The author's Facebook page is at <www.facebook.com/paul.gilbert.589100>.

Diana Bacco explained "Why we should thank Sherlock Holmes for the invention of forensic geology" in a post on Apr. 22 to the Ripley's Believe It or Not! web-site <www.tinyurl.com/48hfjnke>.

Bill Peschel's The Casebook of Twain and Holmes (Herschel: Peschel Press, 2018; 233 pp., $17.95) offers seven stories "as dictated by Samuel Clemens" in which Twain encounters Sherlock Holmes and other Canonical characters, most reprinted from his "223B Casebook Series" and all nicely capturing Twain's style and self-deprecating humor. Bill has a web-site at <www.peschelpress.com>.

Alexander Orlov reports something new for Sherlockian gardeners: seeds for Sherlock Holmes sweet peppers <www.tinyurl.com/2nhparmb>; the web-site describes them as "incredibly productive" and "zoned for Siberia."

Jon L. Lellenberg ("Rodger Prescott") died on Apr. 24. He had a long career as a strategist for the Defense Department, serving as the director of the Policy and Strategy Office of the Special Operations & Counterterrorism Bureau when he retired in 2006. Jon found the Sherlockian world as a member of the Red Circle of in the early 1970s, became the American representative for Dame Jean Conan Doyle after she was able to gain control of her father's American copyrights, and wrote and edited volumes for the Baker Street Irregulars archival history series and about Conan Doyle and his writings. He received his Investiture from the BSI in 1974, and the BSI's Two-Shilling Award in 1988.

It's nice that theaters continue to open (with appropriate wear-your-mask precautions, while more and more of us are being vaccinated for COVID-19). Susan Zeder's "The Death and Life of Sherlock Holmes" will be performed at the Royal Theatre in Versailles, Mo., May 6-9 <www.theroyaltheatre.com>.

Katie Forgette's "Sherlock Holmes and the Case of the Jersey Lily" will be performed at the Historic Casino Hall in La Grange, Tex., May 14-16; Facebook page at <www.facebook.com/Fayettecountycommunitytheatre>.

Amy Frey's new "Sherlock Holmes: A Scandal in Bohemia" will be performed at the Bartow-Pell Mansion Museum in Pelham Bay Park, N.Y., on June 14-13 <www.bartowpellmansionmuseum.org>.

Leslie Bricusse's musical "The Revenge of Sherlock Holmes" is scheduled in a Spiegel-tent tour in Britain that's due to begin in Leicester in August <www.morphicgraffiti.co.uk>.
